

Galakta will publish the Polish edition of War of the Ring Second Edition

Ares Games announces a new international partnership for the game; the Polish edition will be released in spring 2012 together with the German, Italian and Spanish editions

Camaiore, Italy – November 30, 2011 – Ares Games and Galakta announce a partnership to publish the Polish edition of War of the Ring Second Edition. The long-awaited board game – which debuts this December in its English version – is going to be published in several more languages in spring 2012.

Ares Games already announced the partners for other three international editions (Devir, in Spain, Heidelberger Spieleverlag, in Germany, and Red Glove, in Italy). The new partner, Galakta, is the leading Polish game publisher of fantasy and sci-fi board and card games.

“We are glad to take part in such a great project as War of the Ring. There are many fans of Tolkien’s trilogy in our country and we believe that they will find many great experiences during their play sessions with this game”, said Dariusz Waszkiewicz, CEO of Galakta.

“We are working with skilled international game publishers to publish the new edition of War of the Ring in different languages, to give to non-English speaking players the chance of playing the game fully and of enjoying the setting in the best way. Galakta is a great company and will surely match the Polish players’ expectations”, declared Christoph Cianci, CEO of Ares Games.

The international partners will take care of the translation of the rulebook, cards and other game materials into their own languages, and will also handle the distribution of the local editions.
