

Ares Games and Gremlin Project launching new “Galaxy Defenders” Kickstarter campaign at the end of May

Two new expansion sets for the cooperative tactical Sci-Fi miniatures game to be launched through the crowdfunding platform

April 30th, 2014 – New call for Galaxy Defenders agents: following the success of fighting the alien invaders on Earth, it’s time to go beyond and fight the Aliens on their home turf!

Ares Games and Gremlin Project announce the countdown for a new Kickstarter campaign to fund two new expansions for the game. Titled “Operation Strikeback” and “Extinction Protocol,” these two big-box expansions will bring the conflict between the Agency and the Alien Invaders to new battlefields. The KS campaign will start on May 28th and end on June 17th.

The campaign in the upcoming expansions is set after the Agency has won the battle on Earth, as narrated in the storyline of the Core Set campaign.

In “Operation Strikeback,” the Agency prepares to counterattack. With new technologies and new weapons, agents launch a strike against the alien base on the dark side of the Moon with the help of genetically modified agents, facing new alien menaces and terrible creatures.

In “Extinction Protocol,” the storyline brings the agents to the home planet of the invaders, to fight the final battle to save the Galaxy from extinction. Armed with a new generation of weapons and wearing awesome Power Armor, the agents are prepared to fight the worst enemy they have ever faced.

More details about the new expansions and the Kickstarter campaign will be unveiled soon. To learn more about Galaxy Defenders, visit www.galaxy-defenders.com/ and the Ares Games site - www.aresgames.eu/games/galaxy-defenders-line.

About Galaxy Defenders

Galaxy Defenders is a cooperative Sci-Fi tactical game inspired to the Sci-Fi cult movies of the 80s and 90s. To face the imminent invasion of a predatory alien race on Earth, the Agency starts to recruit and train agents to create an elite squad – the Galaxy Defenders – ready to engage the hostile aliens with no mercy: In the game, up to 5 players take control of one or more agents with unique powers, to fight together against the alien menace. The aliens are controlled by the game itself, using an innovative card-driven A.I. system. The battle develops in a series of scenarios organized in a story-driven campaign.

Galaxy Defenders was launched with a campaign on Kickstarter in April 2013, with US$180,252 pledged and 1080 backers. The game was released in March 2014 and is already sold out at the publisher's level. A reprint is already in progress and will reach distribution in the 3rd Quarter.
